The acronym DILF stands for "Daddy, I'd like to fuck", and represents a gay subculture with more than a few online adherents. In his new guidebook, Axel Neustädter takes a closer look at all the silver, muscle and sugar daddies: what are they like; where can they be found; will you also become one? And what about the young men who like daddies: what makes them tick? Neustädter shows how the daddy ideal is both part of and at odds with the prevailing gay culture. Where ageism ends, daddy love begins. This book shines a light on a flourishing, if partially hidden, subculture and shows the way to overcoming prejudices. Neustädter charts the colorful cosmos of confident daddies and twinks, wolves and otters, chicken queens and sons.

We gay folk, who inhabit bodies of the type we naturally desire, require a sex-positive spiritual practice that celebrates and utilizes our gay being instead of opposing it. We need a spiritual practice that teaches us how to use our senses instead of merely shutting them off or repressing them. We need a practice that empowers us to integrate all the rejected aspects of self to form a strong, healthy gay identity, which confers a spiritual advantage in deep spiritual practice. We need a spiritual practice that recognizes that gender and gender identity are fluid, that we all contain elements of the masculine and feminine. We need a spiritual practice that recognizes not only that same-sex love is possible, but that our love can powerfully energize a deep quest for Self-awareness and enlightenment. We need to realize that any feeling of shame or unworthiness connected to our gay being shackles our spirit and blocks us from the full realization of God/dess within, for the Divine Being is gay, too.

He answers important questions about preparation and hygiene; about ingredients in lube; about how to find your partner's 'g-spot' and much more. The more you know, the better you bang.
