Master's Thesis from the year 2011 in the subject Business economics - Business Management, Corporate Governance, grade: 2:1, Oxford Brookes University, language: English, abstract: The reason for this theme is based on a series of studies that began in 2001 with the Goldman Sachs (GS) Global Economic Teams and their document Dreaming with BRICs: The Path to 2050, which developed the BRIC hypothesis that groups together Brazil, Russia, India and China. Its relevance is based on the fact that the rise of the BRIC economies has been one of the major economic changes over the past few decades, and the fact that the BRICs are predicted by many to become the leading economies by 2050. However, these countries are predicted to be poorer on average than the G6 in per capita terms. The first step of the current dissertation was to conduct a macro-environmental analysis with the purpose of investigating the future prospects of the BRICs, and, therefore, the socio-economic challenges that are believed to be actual and future constraints for the BRICs' sustainable growth. As a result, it can be concluded that Brazil's growth may not be sustainable unless there is a long-term financial shift; Russia's growth sustainability requires an increase in population; India's growth seems sustainable, yet the uneducated population might have negative effects at some point by 2050; and China's growth is not likely to decline by 2020, but the socioeconomic challenges it faces might start to have an effect by 2030, meaning its growth rate might not be as robust as is now by 2050. This study is also based on an economic model developed by the researcher, with the objective of investigating the BRICs' prospects in GDP per capita terms, whose initial findings were analysed considering GS's and PricewaterhouseCoopers' (PwC) studies. As a result of this study, the BRICs are projected not to be the leader economies in per capita terms by 2050. However, considering that the long term and uncertain Business transactions and partnerships across borders have become easier than ever due to globalization and global digital connectivity. As part of this shift in the business sphere, managers, executives, and strategists across industries must acclimate themselves with the challenges and opportunities for conducting business globally. International Business: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications presents the latest research innovations focusing on cross-cultural communications and training, international relations, multinational enterprises, outsourcing, international in its content and approach as well as in generating class discussion on intercultural marketing relations, exchange, and communications. With the diversity in world markets and the importance of having locally-specific understanding of markets and consumers, it is a welcome resource for teaching students who can either relate it to their own intercultural experiences or who have never had intercultural experiences themselves." Guliz Ger, Professor of Marketing, Faculty of Business Administration, Bilkent University, Turkey International marketing relationships have to be built on solid foundations. Transaction costs in international trade are high--only a stable and firmly established link between business people can enable them to overcome disagreements and conflicts of interest. "Marketing Across Cultures, 4e" uses a successful two-stage cultural approach to explore International Marketing. - A cross-cultural approach which compares marketing systems and local commercial customs in various countries - An inter-cultural approach which studies the interaction between business peoples of different national cultures "I used "Marketing Across Cultures" in courses in five different countries with students from more than 35 nations. The book provides a stimulating view on international marketing issues and at the same time allows in an excellent way to sensitize and train students for intercultural work, which has become Communication, CRM, Market Research, Social Media, grade: 1,3, Leeds Metropolitan University, language: English, abstract: PESTLE-framework In order to analyse the macro environmental influences which have a considerable impact on Bettys, the English Tea Company located in the north east of England, it is economically reasonable to look at the PESTLE framework. This framework is a useful tool to understand the environment in which an organisation operates. Environmental influences never influence an organisation to the same extent, for some organisations any changes in the surrounding environment will pose a threat but for others those changes might be favourable. "Also, it will affect some organisations favourably whilst posing a threat to others" (Johnson,G., Scholes,K.,2002, p.102). The PESTLE- framework categorises the influences of the environment into six types: political, economic, social, technological, legal and environmental. Market Entry Strategies - Entering a new market is always a critical and fundamental decision due to the advantages and disadvantages of each entry strategy, which will have an influence on the organisation's performance. "Furthermore, the choice of entry method will involve the firm in a long-term commitment from which it might find it hard to extricate itself without some cost." (Chee,H., Harris, R.,1998, p. 292). According to Chee and Harris (1998, p. 291) "(...) it is not a practical strategy to enter all markets with one single entry method; many large companies adopt multiple entry strategies (...)"

Indirect Exporting - As illustrated in the graphics, indirect exporting involves the lowest risk factor when entering a foreign market. This is an ideal strategy for companies that have not got any contacts to the foreign market. Bettys could sell its products to an intermediary in Yorkshire, who himself then sells this products to the German market. The intermediary possesses the know-how and the resources that are necessary when entering a new market successfully.

Direct Exporting - Direct exporting allows Bettys to gain far more control about the international activities, however, the risk of failure is higher due to the costs in marketing, administration and distribution which the company has to absorb. One of the most common direct exporting strategies is franchising.

Direct Investment - Foreign direct investment is an opportunity for Bettys to become more actively involved in the international business activities. In its classic definition, FDI means investing into building a factory abroad

Porter's five forces analysis is a framework for analyzing the level of competition within an industry and business strategy development. It draws upon industrial organization (IO) economics to derive five forces that determine the competitive intensity and therefore the attractiveness of an industry.

Attractiveness in this context refers to the overall industry profitability. An "unattractive" industry is one in which the combination of these five forces acts to drive down overall profitability. A very unattractive industry would be one approaching "pure competition," in which available profits for all firms are driven to normal profit. This analysis is associated with its principal innovator Michael E. Porter of Harvard University. This updated and expanded second edition of Book provides a user-friendly introduction to the subject, Taking a clear structural framework, it guides the reader through the subject's core elements. A flowing writing style combines with the use of illustrations and diagrams throughout the text to ensure the reader understands even the most complex of concepts. This succinct and enlightening overview is a required reading for all those interested in the subject . We hope you find this book useful in shaping your future career & Business.
